John reports most of the plants he planted in the Jones Maltzberger entrance flower bed are doing well, but we did lose 2 of them. He said Rainbow Nursery has a 30-day guarantee, so they will replace those two that died.

We have a few new restaurants that have opened up in the area. Have you tried them? Let us know what you think.

Unfortunately, we had no new members join our neighborhood association last month. That is not unexpected in the summertime, but we do expect that to increase in the fall when we have our membership drive. Our Welcome Committee (John & Ruthie) are still going around to the homes of new families who move into the neighborhood, to greet them personally, give them a gift from the Board, and invite them to join. If you meet new neighbors, please make them feel welcome by introducing yourself and inviting them to be part of the neighborhood family.

Duck & Dumpling
-recently opened in the old Taco Cabana in the HEB shopping center.

3003 Thousand Oaks
Open everyday 11am-9pm,
closed Tuesdays

Giuseppe's Italian Grill
-opened last month in the former Capparelli's location in the HEB shopping center.

2923 Thousand Oaks
Open everyday 11am-9pm
210-248-9020

PEBBLES REMINDER
If you would like an emailed copy of the Pebbles, let us know! Send us an email and we will add you to the list. Want a printed copy? All OHPNA members have access to receive a printed copy. Just let a board member know or email us.

KIDS' KORNER!

Let's get crafty!

Supplies needed:

construction paper
scissors
crayons or markers
glue

Instructions:

1. For the cone, cut out a triangle using brown construction paper. Using a ruler, draw crossed lines with a crayon or marker.
2. For the ice cream, trace your hand on any color construction paper and cut it out.
3. Glue the handprint paper upside down onto the cone paper.
4. For the toppings, color sprinkles, draw ice cream sauce or sprinkle glitter.

Alan Langhoff & Ruthie Szenasi

Hi, I'm Reagan Szenasi, the creator of Olivia the Conqueror. I used to write this comic strip in our newsletter, but as some of you might know, I slowly abandoned the project over time. I guess I kind of just got busy with other incredibly important endeavours, like playing video games. (Well, important to me, at least.) But I'm back with a big announcement (that I know most of you will not care about at all since this newsletter's audience is almost completely made up of grown adults): Olivia the Conqueror is BACK with a fresh coat of paint! I've been researching (OUTSIDE OF SCHOOL!!!) the aspects of good, engaging cartoon characters, and I'm happy to say that Olivia and all of her friends' final designs turned out great. One of my nitpicks about the prehistoric Olivia the Conqueror was that all of the characters looked too similar, and I think I've greatly solved this nagging issue. One more thing: from now on, I'll be creating this comic strip digitally on Google Drawings. So STAY TUNED for Olivia's FINAL DESIGN - to be revealed in the next issue! Because I want to drag this on for as long as I can!

SUMMER FAMILY RESOURCES

The summer months can be particularly expensive for families. Kids are out of school which could mean parents are incurring the cost of summer camps, breakfast/lunch feedings as well as the cost of entertaining. Here are a few resources for you to help burden the blow.

NEISD is offering free lunches to children under the age of 18. Visit www.summerfood.org for more information.

Several restaurants around the city offer Kids Eat Free/Kids Eat Cheap meals throughout the week. Check out websites including www.fun4alamokids.com for a list of participating restaurants.

The City of San Antonio has numerous pools and splash pads open to the public. Visit www.sa.gov for locations. In addition, many places like The Rock at La Cantera, The Pearl and Emmitt Park at CBC offer free splashpads.

Santikos is offering free summer kids movies on Tuesdays and Wednesdays from June 3- July 30th. Visit www.santikos.com for participating locations and movie times.

Do your kids enjoy bowling? Main Event - San Antonio North near us is a participating location. Register at www.kidsbowlfree.com and enjoy 2 free games per day, per person.

And for extra reading, don't forget our neighborhood has a Little Free Library.

Have other ideas to share? Post them on our neighborhood Facebook page!
